PHOTOGRAPHY

Capturing Personalities, Not Just Images

It's hard to say when I got the idea to start Main Street Photography by Coleen Moskowitz; however, after shooting as a hobby for more than 15 years and teaching videography for almost 20 years, I figured it was time to take my skills to the next level and open a small business. While developing my photography skills, I've had the pleasure of shooting everything from professional film sets, high school sports, behind the scenes at events and portraits. For me, picking up the camera is always a nice little adventure.

PAINESVILLE ANNOUNCES 2019-2023 ROAD PLAN

Painesville has announced its new five-year plan, for the years 2019-2023, for road infrastructure improvement in the city. The plan sees the city investing almost $16 million in road projects through 2023, continuing on the momentum of the 2014-2018 road plan which saw $8.2 million in road project investments. Painesville City's road issues have been a high priority for city council since the first five-year road levy was passed in 2013 and renewed again in 2017.

"The community has made it clear that roads are the most important issue in the city and we are dedicating as many resources as possible to improving road infrastructure," said Painesville City Council President Paul Hach.

To determine which roads would be resurfaced in the coming five years, the city's engineering department started with data collection to determine the status of all city roads. Each street was inspected and ranked using ODOT standards. Once a list of roads ranked from worst to best condition was produced, the other infrastructures involved, such as water, sanitary sewer and storm sewer, were evaluated.

Next, the city evaluated available funding through local sources, including the 2017 road levy, the general capital fund, the water capital fund, the sewer capital fund and Level 2 storm water fees. In addition, the city looked to regional, state and federal grant and loan opportunities to assist the projects.

The final decision of which roads would be part of the plan was made by combining the engineering department's ranked road list with the available grant funding opportunities in order to create the most fiscally responsible plan for improvements.

"We want to work smarter not harder," said Painesville City Manager Monica Irelan. "We looked at the whole picture when deciding what roads would be resurfaced. It doesn't make sense to resurface a road just to rip it out the following year to replace the water lines. We took a look at all factors involved and tried to make the most logical decisions."

A list of streets that are part of the 2019-2023 road plan are listed below. While the first three years of the plan are very likely to occur as written, the fourth and fifth year reflect an educated guess of where the community, state and country will be. The plan's success is based solely on the ability to fund the projects.

2019: Button Avenue and W Jackson Street ($1.5 million project)

2020: Cedarbrook Drive (Southington Boulevard to Monroe Boulevard), Riverside Drive (in conjunction with the county),

Sanford Street (Richmond Street to Skinner Avenue), Skinner Avenue ($1.5 million project) and Watson Street

2021: E Washington Street, Newell Street (Jackson Street to railroad, in conjunction with the county), N State Street (Chester Street to Skinner Avenue) and S St. Clair Street (High Street to Washington Street)

2022: Chestnut Street, Hayer Drive, Latimore/Mill Street, Magnolia Drive, Oak Street, Reed Avenue and Stonehaven Drive

2023: Roosevelt Drive, Sanford Street (Taylor Place to St Clair Street) and W Eagle Street ($1.5 million project)

Roads replaced in the 2014-2018 road plan: Belmont Drive, Courtland Street, E Prospect Street, Elm Street, Erie Street, Fern Drive, Gillett Street, Hillside Drive, Hine Avenue, Levan Drive, Lexington Avenue, Lusard Street, Marion Avenue, Richmond Street, Rockwood Drive, N State Street, Parmly Place, Pearl Street, Stage Avenue, Transit Street, W Walnut Street, W Washington Street, Williams Street and Wood Street

"This comprehensive plan could not have been completed without the renewal of the road levy in 2017," added Irelan. "City Council and staff are incredibly grateful to the residents for entrusting us with funds to fix the roads. Our goal is to get to every street in the city, but it is going to take time."

Road conditions have been a problem for Painesville City over the past decade. Between 2009 and 2013, the city was only able to dedicate $1.9 million in total road repairs, or an average of $393,000 per year. Because of this low investment, road infrastructure became weak and many roads fell into disrepair. In 2013, the residents of Painesville passed a five-year levy which helped Painesville City to complete $8.2 million in road projects throughout 2014-2018, a 316 percent increase in road investment. Painesville residents renewed the new five-year road levy in November 2017.

FAIR HOUSING RESOURCE CENTER

The Fair Housing Resource Center Inc. is announcing the creation of a Hispanic Advisory Committee for the residents of Lake County. The mission of FHRC is to promote equal housing opportunities for all persons and to advocate for fair housing and diversity in Lake County and the surrounding communities through education and the involvement of the public, government, and business communities.

The goal of this committee is to discuss and problem solve housing discrimination, stereotypes, and common issues the Hispanic residents of Lake County face on a daily basis. Within the county, there is a large Hispanic population, whose housing needs are not always fairly addressed fairly. FHRC would like to take a proactive approach to identifying the disparities within our neighborhoods, and provide resources for families in need who face difficulty within their housing because of National Origin.

Any and all volunteers are welcome to participate in this committee. FHRC is open to any volunteers or suggestions of individuals who might have interest in participating. The committee plans to meet a total of four times per year, or more depending on overall participation from the community. The first meeting will be September 26th 2018 at 11:00 am at the Fair Housing Resource Center, Inc. located at 1100 Mentor Avenue, Painesville OH 44077.

If you are interested in joining the committee, know an individual who may be interested in joining, or have any questions regarding this committee, please do not hesitate to contact our office at 440-392-0147 for more information.

The Fairport Harbor Plant of LyondellBasell, one of the world's largest plastics, chemical and refining companies, recently announced donations totaling $5,063 to the United Way of Lake County

Ted Cudak site manager for the Fairport Harbor Plant, said his employees are devoted volunteers and supporters of United Way because they see firsthand the impact their involvement makes in the community.

"Our employees understand how their dollars truly make a local difference to advance our communities" said Cudak.

The success of LyondellBasell's local campaign means the United Way of Lake County will be better equipped to assist 27 partner agencies that provide over 30 critical programs and services to Lake County's most vulnerable residents. United Way of Lake County's funded programs provide basic human needs, education, youth development, health, crisis intervention, mental health, transportation, and disaster relief for individuals, families, youth, seniors, and veterans. "Thanks to the generosity of LyondellBasell and many others alike, United Way of Lake County funded programs provided over 95,000 services to residents in need in 2017," said Jodi Matsko, Resource Development Manager of United Way of Lake County. "LyondellBasell's support is immensely important to the UWLC campaign because it enables us to do the work we do which is to create lasting impact for our communities most vulnerable residents."

In 2017, LyondellBasell held United Way campaigns at 23 company sites across the U.S. and raised a total of $2.3 million that will support 26 United Way chapters.

About LyondellBasell's Fairport Harbor - LyondellBasell's Fairport Harbor Plant produces wire and cable insulating resins. Products from this site are used by customers to insulate copper and fiber optic wiring for the automotive and appliance industries. These products add value to our society by making the electrical systems in our cars and home appliances safer and more durable. The site encompasses approximately four acres within the Village of Fairport Harbor.

Ohio Businesses' Medical Marijuana Decision Impacted by Outside Forces

This article was taken from "Ohio Matters" which is an official publication of The Ohio Chamber of Commerce and provided by "Working Partners"

Ohio's deadline for having its medical marijuana system up and running is September 8, 2018. Before this date, employers need to determine and declare where their company stands in relation to allowing employees to use marijuana as medicine.*

Ohio employers may choose to prohibit or accommodate employee use. And although challenging, some workplaces will blend their approach by need (e.g. DOT requirements) or choice.

Ohio has addressed the employment issue in its bill, and the good news is that Ohio House Bill 523 – legalizing the use of marijuana as medicine – provides Ohio employers with flexibility.

HB 523 states:

- Employers are not required to accommodate use, possession or distribution.
- Employers can refuse to hire, and can discharge, discipline and take adverse employment action.
- Employers can establish a drug-free workplace program.
- Employers cannot be sued for adverse action taken based on medical marijuana use.

This law does not interfere with federal restrictions on employment.

- No unemployment will be paid for an employee violating an employer's drug-free workplace.
- This law will not interfere with workers' compensation
- Drug-Free Safety Program (DFSP) requirements remain valid.
- Rebuttable presumption is still in place.
- Medical marijuana will not be covered by health insurance.

For the employer that does not want to accommodate use, the available workforce pool may become more limited. For the employer who does want to accommodate use, many drug-free workplace program operational details will have to be determined and articulated in company policy and practice. However, an Ohio employer may want to consider issues beyond the state's borders as it finalizes its corporate position. It will be vital that employers depend upon their legal counsels and drug-free workplace consultants.

For some Ohio employers, the decisions they face may not be as simple as determining what they want for employees in their sole Ohio facility. Every week, there are significant developments around the country regarding state legalization of both medical marijuana and recreational marijuana, and some could directly affect how Ohio employers deal with this issue in their workplaces.

Just a few years ago, the mantra in the drug-free workplace industry was, "Although there have been challenges, employers have consistently prevailed in prohibiting employee use of marijuana." Back then only a few states included employee protections in their legalization of medical marijuana.

Currently, 12 states – Ohio is not one – have specific protections for employees. There have been court decisions in Rhode Island, Connecticut and Massachusetts that have thus far ruled in favor of the employees and may have a much broader impact.

Three factors remain relatively consistent.

- If employees are regulated under federal law, marijuana use is prohibited.
- Private industry employers can prohibit use on premises.
- Private employers can prohibit an employee from being impaired on the job.

Even if an Ohio-based company and its employees do not work outside of Ohio, the directives being forged by other states can still impact your Ohio business. No matter where an Ohio employer stands on accommodating use of medical marijuana, another state's law can complicate corporate operations. Employers should get feedback from their legal counsel and program consultants before making decisions.

For example, under California House Bill 64, recreational marijuana use is legal. Consider a situation in which an Ohio-based employee travels for work or vacation to California, and per California's legalization, uses in that state. Then, upon returning to Ohio, the employee tests positive in a routine drug test. Or, while in California, what if the employee posts a picture using marijuana? An Ohio employer should address this in policy if such activities could negatively impact the company's public image and business opportunities.

In years past, we said the most important concerns were those in the state location where the employee would be tested. Although this is still a working premise, a recent case in Minnesota (Olson v. Push, Inc., No. 14-3160 (8th Cir. Feb. 22,

Medical Marijuana

2016)) complicated that. A court found Minnesota's workplace drug test law can apply to employees in other states when the employee or the employer has contact with Minnesota.

As a result, we need to be cautious about assuming that we understand the impact of the laws of any involved state when it comes to drug-free workplace issues. What can appear to be a simple matter of an employee violating a drug-free workplace policy may end up being evaluated under a different employee protection issue because of things such as the employee's working relationship to another state.

Employers need to consider several factors as they determine their stance. They need to consider what states they work in, what type of work they do, where testing takes place, their tolerance for risk and much more, things that may only be understood by their counsel or consultants.

Employers will benefit from staying apprised of developments at the local level, as well as nationally. And there are potentially many more twists and turns before Ohio's September deadline.

Engineering and Art Sponsors Needed for LEAF's Umbrella Project

David Munson, Executive Director, LEAF

Lake/Geauga Educational Assistance Foundation's (LEAF) mission is to assist high school students discover, plan and implement their future plans in 19 area high schools. LEAF's program is implemented by our experienced in-school college access advisors who meet with students within the school setting to discuss career and college program options and ways to piece together financial aid so they may continue on their post-secondary journey.

LEAF also coordinates, The Umbrella Project – a project-based art and engineering learning experience for students. We provide art students with a blank white umbrella and special non-toxic waterproof paint pigment markers to create a work of art on a unique canvas. The TOP 50 umbrella designs are invited to walk the runway in LEAF's Singing in the Rain Benefit Umbrella Auction. In each of the first two years, the winning umbrella art design has come from Riverside High School, under the direction of art teacher, Mr. Drew Hartmann. Last year's second-place scholarship winner attended Perry High School and was in Ms. Debbie Suba's art class.

The project-based engineering learning experience was added when LEAF partnered with the Great Lakes Mall in Mentor to display the umbrellas each year from early February through late April. The high school engineering students are challenged with sketching, 3-D CAD drawing and building a prototype to securely hang the umbrellas from the rafters of the Mall – a real-life challenge! Once the prototypes are approved, the students produce their apparatus to create a magnificent display of the creative umbrellas – a true partnership between fine arts and engineering.

Through volunteering or financial support of LEAF's Umbrella Project, you can help support this program. In the last two years, LEAF has provided more than $10,000 in fine art and engineering classroom supplies to 14 area high schools, representing an involvement of more than 250 high school students. In addition, LEAF has awarded $7,000 in college scholarships to nine students attending college in either fine arts or engineering. You or your company could volunteer to be an umbrella art judge, an engineering scholarship award judge, or provide support to underwrite the cost of umbrellas, markers, and engineering materials. Your company could also be an art or engineering scholarship sponsor or adopt a classroom. Lastly, maybe your company would like to place a bid on an umbrella and raffle it off to an employee, as a fundraiser - be creative!

In ending, LEAF would like to acknowledge our Presenting Sponsors of The Umbrella Project: Great Lakes Mall, Lake Erie College and Lighthouse Advisers. Without their early support, this project would not have gotten off the ground. You can reach LEAF about the 2018-2019 Umbrella Project at dmunson@leaf-ohio.org
