Eastern Lake County
Chamber of Commerce
July 2020

The historical society has GREAT news. We have entered into an agreement with the village to purchase the village hall/Carnegie library. This allows us to continue our mission to preserve the history of Madison and a landmark building.

The Madison Historical Society is extremely happy to announce the dream of a permanent home is being acquired through the sale of the Madison Village Hall to the historical society. This dream began 42 years ago with our founders Louanna Billington and Donna Keyse. The building, which was constructed 100 years ago as a Carnegie Library became the first home of the Madison Public Library. In 1974, the building was acquired by the Village of Madison for its Village Hall. In the recent past, Madison has lost several of its historic buildings. Not only will this acquisition allow our Historical Society to have a permanent home and enhance our ability to better serve the community, but it also preserves a building of importance in Madison's history. There is still a lot of work that goes into transforming the space into a museum, office and resource center.

We look forward to aiding members and residents in researching their genealogy or property and using our resources to further educate our community on the history of Madison. Our telephone number remains the same 440-417-1959 if you have any questions or would like to volunteer.

The following organizations have recently made an important investment in their business by joining their chamber. We thank them and hope you will consider them for all your personal and professional needs.

Lake County Free Clinic Awarded Gold Seal for Quality Standards

PAINESVILLE: Lake County Free Clinic, the only free clinic serving Lake, Geauga and Ashtabula counties, was awarded a 2020 Gold Rating by the National Association of Free and Charitable Clinics Quality Standards Program. This rating, based on self-reported data, showcases LCFC's commitment to providing quality care to uninsured and underinsured adults and children.

"This recognition is a tribute to the volunteers and staff who live out their belief that healthcare is a right, not a privilege," said LCFC Executive Director Marty Hiller. "The need for affordable healthcare is part of the larger picture of inequalities affecting many members of our community. This need continues to grow as our neighbors lose insurance coverage or employment. The Gold Rating demonstrates our commitment to providing this care at the highest level."

In its inaugural year, the Quality Standards Program was created to quantify and qualify the care provided at free and charitable clinics across the country. Member clinics submitted data on their policies and procedures in the following areas: administration, enhanced access and continuity of care, identification and management of patient population information, planning and managing care, providing self-care support and community resources, tracking and coordinating care and measuring performance.

"Each year, approximately 2 million patients receive care at 1,400 free and charitable clinics and pharmacies throughout the United States," said Nicole Lamoureux, NAFC President and CEO. "The participation from our members in this program demonstrates their commitment to providing quality care to people in their communities that are medically underserved."

Last year, Lake County Free Clinic provided more than 4,000 medical and treatment visits to more than 1,400 adults and children in northeast Ohio. In response to the increased need and the coronavirus pandemic, LCFC has implemented several changes to enhance care for patients:

- Through a grant from the PA Foundation, LCFC, in partnership with Case Western Reserve University's Physician Assistant program, will offer evening visits for patients working during the day or unable to access daytime transportation.
- LCFC has implemented telehealth and virtual visits for patients at high risk or unable to leave their homes.
- LCFC now offers all new patient paperwork on its website, emphasizing its commitment to improving the patient experience while reducing its impact on climate change.

THE ALLIANCE FOR WORKING TOGETHER APPRENTICESHIP PROGRAM

Mentor, OH (06/15/2020) – The Alliance for Working Together (AWT) Foundation would like to announce the beginning of the AWT Apprenticeship Program, which is a collaborative effort of the AWT Foundation, Lakeland Community College, Mentor Public Schools, Lake Shore Compact, and Auburn Career Center. Our community recognizes the need for skilled manufacturing workers and would like to strengthen our manufacturing workforce through apprenticeship training. The AWT apprenticeship offers a reliable pipeline of skilled workers, customized training that meets industry standards, and increased knowledge transfer through on-the-job learning.

The AWT Foundation is looking forward to offering two programs, the pre-apprenticeship model and the traditional apprenticeship model. The Pre-Apprenticeship Model will target high school students and will be provided by Mentor Public Schools and Lakeshore Compact. Participating in this program will take a year off of a traditional apprenticeship model and align with apprentice training in Northeast Ohio.

The traditional AWT Apprenticeship Model will target adults and incumbent workers. The AWT apprenticeship program is a blended educational model with online and in-person, expert training. In the AWT Apprenticeship Program, there will be 21 online courses for technical related training, the online format allows students to work at their own pace. Apprentices will also receive in-person instruction by an AWT Instructor/Industry Expert, Mondays from 3pm to 5pm at Auburn Career Center. AWT offers four different apprenticeship occupations including: precision machinist, tool programmer/numerical control, tool & die maker, and mold maker. The cost of enrollment in the AWT Apprenticeship program is $2,000 per employee per year and through the Governor's Office of Workforce Transformation's TechCred Program, employers who submit successful TechCred applications will be reimbursed up to $2,000 per credential when current or prospective employees complete their training.

"I am extremely proud of the AWT Foundation members and our community--we have come together to create one of the most innovative apprenticeship models in Northeast Ohio. This program is business-driven to ensure that we are meeting business workforce needs and equipping our apprentices to be leaders in the manufacturing industry. I hope this collaborative effort between businesses, higher education institutions, K-12 education providers, career and technical education centers, and non-profits demonstrates the power of community led initiatives," stated Juliana Petti, Executive Director of the AWT Foundation.

Dr. Joe Glavan, CTE Coordinator for Mentor schools, discussed the impact on students in high school and stated "The creation of pre-apprenticeship program is another excellent way to ensure our students are being trained with skills today for the jobs of tomorrow. Students who meet our Pre-Apprenticeship Program requirements will earn a state of Ohio Apprenticeship Council Recognized Pre-Apprenticeship Program Certificate of Completion which is a 12 point valued credential, earn substantial articulated credit towards an apprenticeship, and earn articulated college credit with one of our many college partners which include Lakeland, Tri-C, Kent State University, and Akron University.”

“We are excited for adult students and incumbent apprentices to have access to this amazing opportunity,” said Barb Friedt, dean for applied studies. “Those who participate will also have the option to take general education courses at Lakeland concurrently so they can work toward an associate of applied science degree. Once they complete their apprenticeship, they can complete the remaining technical courses at Lakeland to fulfill degree requirements.”

Dr. Glavan also discussed local collaboration and stated “I look forward to continuing to collaborate with AWT as we work to unify our approach to address the workforce skills gap in Ohio. Through alignment of education, business, and government collaborating together, we can strengthen workforce pathways to rewarding careers for community members and ultimately help create a stronger northeast Ohio.”

For more information or to enroll your employee in the AWT Apprenticeship today, contact Juliana Petti at Julianapetti@thinkmfg.com or Rachel Metcalf at Rachel\_metcalf@thinkmfg.com.

Incorporating a Plan for Your Digital Assets into Your Estate Plan

Traditionally there are a number of elements of an estate plan for a person to prepare for what happens to their assets when they pass on. Traditionally you would draft a will that would be witnessed or notarized and sometimes even filed with the County Probate Court. Additionally, you might have included making a durable power of attorney to allow another person to act in your place for your various financial affairs. This is especially useful if you have a debilitating illness that results in you not being able to take care of your affairs but does not kill you.

As society has progressed the need to establish who would make healthcare decisions for you and to document what specific healthcare treatments you would or would not want in certain circumstances became both possible and desirable. As such estate planning grew to include living wills and healthcare specific power of attorneys in order to designate your healthcare decision maker and any treatments that you would not want performed on you such as resuscitation or artificial breathing, hydration, or nourishment.

In recent years estate planning has begun to involve the inclusion of so called “digital assets” so that your plans and desires for those items also pass on to who you designate. These things include those items on social media sites like Facebook and Instagram; cloud file space providers like iCloud, Dropbox, and Google; eCommerce sites like eBay, Amazon, Shutterfly, Flickr, Kindle, etc.; email providers like Outlook, Gmail, and Yahoo; virtual currency sites like Venmo, Paypal, Bitcoin, ethereum, etc.; music, video, and gaming sites/accounts; blogs and on-line business sites; and travel and other rewards sites.

Reading this list you may be thinking of how much information that list encompasses. It may seem like a monumental task to try to address it. However, taking this task into steps will allow you to adequately prepare and incorporate these items into your estate plan. First, determine who in your life you want managing these items as your “digital executor.” This may be the same person as the executor under your will or a different person, but if not the same those persons should know who each other are and be prepared to work together. Second, you should maintain a physical list or a digital list that compiles your passwords for all of these various online sites that is in your digital executor’s possession or they have access to. This will enable your digital executor to be able to access these sites to carry out your desires after you pass on. As part of this process you will also take inventory of these items describing what is contained in them and what you want done with each. For example, you may want your digital currencies liquidated or given to your heirs whereas you may want your photos downloaded and copied for each of your children or other heirs. These instructions should also be provided to your digital executor.

Some sites and apps have specific provisions built into its system to appoint someone to be able to access your information after you pass. Both Google and Facebook have such procedures. Regardless, the final point of preparedness is to keep in mind the pace that technology changes. We have moved quickly from cassette tapes to CDs then flash media and now cloud storage. Technology advances quickly. Passwords also change frequently. Because of this it is important to review your list not less than annually and to update the passwords as you change them.
